

I have a dream that one day the world will be free of wars.

I have a dream that instead of using money on weapons, countries use it to stop poverty and spend it on education and better health care for everyone.

I have a dream that the world lives in peace and harmony.

I have a dream that parents stop losing their children due to war.

I have a dream that children stop losing their parents due to war.

This is my hope.

With this faith, the world will become a better place.

With this faith, the world will be a happier place.

With this faith, the world will not be as scary as it has become.

And if everyone works together, regardless of nationality or religion, then peace can be an achievable reality.
