

I have a dream that one day I will become an accomplished architect.

I have a dream that all the challenging work I have put into my studies will blossom into a beautiful and strong tree.

I have a dream that all those days I spent studying instead of going out to have fun will be worth it and grant me the entry into the halls of my dream architectural school.

I have a dream that all these marks I received at school, and which affect my mood, will allow the doors of a great architectural school to open for me.

This is my hope.

With this belief, I will succeed in my career and sculpt my path to become the master architect of my aspirations.

With this belief, I will be able to create buildings, houses, and much more.

Money will then allow me to open numerous treasure chests, filled with dreams, each one with precious jewels waiting to be cherished.

Money will also allow me to adopt furry companions, and spoil my mother with beautiful gifts, just as she deserves them.

And if my school results allow me to enter this school, this must become true.
