

I have a dream that one day people will no longer feel the emptiness of being lonely.

I have a dream that no matter where you come from, what you've been through, you can still find your true self.

I have a dream that one day I will be able to tell my children "I'm proud of you", because every human being deserves love and attention.

I dream of a new world. This world may seem impossible or utopian, but I want humanity to be an example of society.

This is my hope.

With this faith, we will create this new and ideal world in which people can concentrate on improving and helping each other, that's what we were born for.

With this faith, humans will stop looking back on past events, they will focus on what they will become.

With this faith, we will embrace the future of our civilizations.

And if we are the masters of our fate and the captains of our souls, then this must become true.
